The dime museum seems to have a good hold on the people. Yesterday afternoon they had a big house and last evening at half past eight it was impossible to obtain a seat on the first floor. Matinee again this afternoon, and another entertainment this evening.

Bicknell, the Chicago "preacher," who asserted at the prohibition camp meeting in this city, eight weeks ago, that he considered Carter Harrison "the most corrupt man on the face of God's earth, and that Dick Oglesby was not much better," will harangue the prohibitionists at Lincoln this evening.

Charlie Cornear, who has recently had charge of a switch crew in the Wabash yards in this city, left yesterday noon for Forest, having been promoted to the position of night yardmaster at that place. Charlie is a thorough railroad man and his friends wish him success. He will still make his home in this city.

New fall goods just received of the latest design and will be made upon the latest style. Look at the appearance of my coats on the street, and it will convince you of where you ought to get your clothes made, and that is at James Veale's, the French Couturier on Cork, 142 Prairie street. He does not deny his nationality. a9-3m

The Wabash will hereafter run the Macon Bonhoir over on their through trains. They are the finest railway coaches built, being fitted up in a fine and magnificent style. One of these cars bearing the name of "Ill Traveller" passed through here yesterday afternoon for St. Louis. The brake wheel and hand rails on it were nickel plated, and the wheels, which are larger than on an ordinary coach, are made of paper.

Superintendent Armstrong, of the middle division of the Wabash, issued his first order from his office in this city yesterday. It was order No. 14 and was to the effect that his headquarters had been moved from Springfield to Decatur and that O. J. Travis had been appointed superintendent of bridges and buildings with headquarters at Springfield.

James M. Graham, of Niantic, the democratic nominee for the legislature, will address the Young Men's Cleveland and Hendricks club and the democratic voters of this township at the headquarters on North Water street this evening. He is a splendid speaker and will undoubtedly deliver a good address. Every democrat in the city should be present to hear him.

The following dispatch from this city to the Chicago Times, appeared in yesterday's issue of that paper: "Major W. W. Peddecord, son of J. J. Peddecord, a leading banker of this city, and a nephew of Gen. R. J. Oglesby, has bolted the entire republican ticket. Maj. Peddecord served on Gen. Jesse H. Moore's staff during the war, and has always been an active working republican. He will sit to-morrow as a delegate in the democratic county convention. There are thirty-four converts to democracy in Macon township, this county, prominent among whom is John H. Sargent, a leading banker. They are solid conversions—not mere independents."

Trainmen are sometimes greatly annoyed and offend their patience severely tried. Yesterday when the Wabash train for Springfield was pulling out from the depot, a woman rushed frantically towards it and finally succeeded in having it stopped. She then got aboard and after riding a couple of blocks discovered that she was on the wrong train and another stop had to be made for her accommodation. If it had been a man the conductor would probably have sworn and there is no telling but what he uttered an insubordinate "swear," anyhow. This case was pretty near as bad as one that happened the other day. A man shook his hand to his friend leaving on the train, and some one on the platform thinking he wanted to get aboard, pulled the bell cord and stopped the train. The man improved the opportunity by rushing out and shaking hands with his friend, after which the train was again started.

DECATUR DEMOCRATS.

The Macon County Democratic Convention held yesterday at Cooper Hotel. Ticket: Nominated.

The democrats of Macon county held their county convention at the court house in this city yesterday afternoon, and nominated candidates for the various county offices to be filled this fall. Every township was represented and nearly every delegation was full. There was a general feeling of confidence among the delegates, of democratic victory in the coming fight, which was new energy and caused all to go to work earnest for the best ticket ever presented to the American people.

The convention met at half past eleven, and was called to order by R. E. Pratt, secretary of the democratic county committee.

On motion of C. C. Clerk, S. P. Nicky, of Oakley, was made temporary chairman, and L. M. Elumina, secretary.

It was decided that each delegation be allowed to name one of their number each on permanent organization and credentials.

After the committee had been selected, an adjournment was taken until one o'clock, in order that they be allowed to make their reports.

Upon the re-assembling of the convention at one o'clock, the committee reported the credentials as handed them from the different townships, as correct. In case all delegations were not full the committee recommended that a full vote be cast for the candidates having a majority of the votes in the said delegation.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The committee on permanent organization reported on Mr. H. C. Mowry, of Hickory township, as permanent chairman, and Mr. George P. Blume, of this city, as secretary, with C. F. Randolph and J. C. McMillan as assistants. The report was adopted.

On taking the chair Mr. Mowry expressed his thanks for the honor bestowed upon him. He stated the delegates were there to fulfill the wishes of the democrats of this county. He expressed the wish that good democrats be nominated to fill the offices, and closed with a few remarks in regard to the democratic party.

The call of the convention was read and nominations were declared in order.

Before proceeding, a motion was made and carried that on nomination the secretary call the roll by townships and the chairman of each delegation should announce the vote.

Manuel Friedman of Macon, was nominated as candidate for circuit clerk by acclamation.

The name of I. A. Buckingham was presented to the convention as candidate for states attorney, and as there was no opposition he was chosen by acclamation.

Peter Perl was nominated for the office of coroner by acclamation.

Nominations for representatives were then declared in order. Formerly these candidates were chosen in a district convention, but this year it was decided that each county in the district name its own candidate.

Henry Kaylor nominated Hiram Ward, of Wheatland. J. W. Brown nominated D. K. Wilson, of Friends Creek. C. C. Clark nominated James M. Graham, of Niantic. Mr. Craig nominated Robert Hill, of Boody. There being no other nominations an informal ballot was taken with the following result:

Graham.....	63
Wilson.....	30
Hill.....	30
The names of Hiram Ward and D. K. Wilson were withdrawn, and a formal ballot taken as follows:
Graham.....	63
Hill.....	34

As soon as the vote was announced the delegates commenced a loud applause, mingled with cries for Graham. That gentleman wended his way to the platform and heartily thanked the convention for the honor which was lavishly bestowed upon him. He said he had any other candidate been chosen, he would have lent his cordial support, and put forth every effort to have secured his election. With a glowing compliment to the national and state democratic tickets and another expression of thanks to the convention Mr. Graham retired, while the delegates indulged in a hearty applause.

I. A. Buckingham was called for several times but he was not present. Hiram Ward arose and expressed his thanks to his friends for their assistance and for the vote given him and said he would heartily support the nominee, as did D. K. Wilson and Robert Hill.

On motion the chair appointed S. P. Nicky, S. S. Jack and Mr. Roberts, as a committee to confer with a committee from Logan county in regard to representative.

There being no other business to transact the convention adjourned. It was harmonious in every particular and the democrats may well feel proud of their county ticket.

SPECIAL PREMIUM.

J. G. Starr & Son offer as a special premium to be conferred for the county fair next month, a handsome leaping horn side saddle with moquette seat and trimmings and shippers stirrup. The saddle will be awarded to the best lady equestrienne over fifteen years of age. No award will be made unless eight or more ladies compete. a26d&w1f

The remains of Philip J. Becker were laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the funeral was largely attended by sorrowing and sympathizing friends and relatives. Among those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Becker, of Hammond; Mr. Fred Hanauer, of Taylorville; and Mr. Fred Killius, of Springfield.

CAMP-MEETING.

The Christian People Happy. Rev. Weber Tells His Experience.

The 5:30 o'clock meeting announced for yesterday morning did not take place, but at 8 o'clock the christian people entered into their work with renewed interest. Rev. Lowry conducted the meeting, and as the congregation was made up principally of religious people, there was a general good feeling.

At 10 o'clock Rev. Lowry preached a sermon that entered the hearts of those present, and made them feel that they were there for a great good purpose.

The services in the forenoon were rather home meetings for the church people. Some very fine experiences being given by the young converts, and some good bible readings and explanations.

Four o'clock is the hour set apart for the children's meeting each evening, and is conducted by that excellent christian woman, Mrs. Hughes, of Griggsville. Yesterday's meeting proved to be a very interesting one for the little folks.

Just before the evening services the ladies held a prayer meeting, led by Mrs. Dr. Lowry.

At the opening of the evening service Rev. Dimmitt spoke a few minutes. He said he had been requested by many citizens, both in Decatur and from the country, to have Rev. Weber postpone the giving of his experience until this evening, but owing to a number of people having come a distance to hear the experience, and that it had been announced for that evening, he thought it should not be put off.

Rev. Weber told in a plain common, straightforward way how he was raised a Catholic, how he was not satisfied with that kind of religion, and how he finally became converted to his present faith. His mother was born in Ohio. His grandfather was a Frenchman and his father was born in France and came to America when 9 years old. His grandfather was a Catholic and his father and mother were both Catholics, and he received his early training from them, said that at home he learned to drink and to dance, and that playing cards was not considered a vice with his parents; but that all through this he never forgot to pray. At the age of 12 or 15 years he used to sell matches and brooms, and in many other ways managed to make money. He had a great desire to some day be a rich man. At the age of 18 he became a bar-tender, although without the consent of his parents. He did not continue long in this business till his parents moved to Hamilton, Ohio, where he worked for a time in a paper mill. While working in the paper mill he was associated with a bad class of boys. He acquired the habit of drinking, going to dances, and for a time furnished money for dances. He afterwards learned the trade of carrying, trimming, and while working at this trade in the city of Cincinnati he was converted to his present religion. He had been taught that none but the Catholics would be saved, and had "made the sign of the cross with Holy Water on him" but could not be satisfied with that sort of religion. Rev. Weber attended college from 1877 to 1881, and afterwards decided that it was his duty to enter the ministry. He says, "If I have done so much for a poor Catholic boy, what can he do for you?"

The audience was greatly pleased with Rev. Weber's experience and the way it was delivered.

TEN O'CLOCK PROGRAMME.

Five o'clock a. m. prayer meeting. Eight o'clock a. m. social meeting, conducted by Rev. Lowry. Ten o'clock a. m. preaching by Rev. Lowry.

2:30 p. m. preaching by Rev. Whitlock, of Macon.

Five o'clock p. m. children's meeting conducted by Mrs. Hughes. Evening sermon by Rev. Weber.

NOTES.

Rev. Wm. Mitchell, of Arcola, arrived on the ground yesterday.

Rev. Weber's tent is situated near a hundred yards southwest of the principal tent. He and the boy traveling with him are camping together, and their tent is not furnished better than the rest, but rather poorer. He seems to think very little of himself and his personal comforts, but devotes his whole time to the meeting.

Mrs. Arnold Hughes, who has charge of the children's meetings, is the wife of Mr. Arnold Hughes, editor of the Griggsville Independent.

Alderman Lake's mother, who fell over the ropes of the tent night before last and had her wrist badly sprained, is better, having been treated by Mrs. Moore and Sergeant. She is tenting with E. S. McCarthy's family.

Mr. D. K. Harris, the young man traveling with Rev. Weber, was very sick yesterday, but expressed himself as feeling much better last night at 10 o'clock.

The grounds are in a very good condition since the rain.

There was a good prayer meeting held at Mother Imboden's tent last evening, a short time before evening services.

It is generally expected that there will be a big crowd on the grounds next Sunday.

BAND CONCERT.

The regular Thursday night concert was given in the public park last evening, but was not as largely attended as usual, owing to the camp-meeting and dime museum both being in progress. Those who were sent, however, enjoyed the excellent music. The programme was as follows:

1. St. Alban's Commandery March.
2. Selection—Ma. Min. (T. B. Boyer)
3. Blue and Light Quick-step. (Flow)
4. Approach of Spring Waltzes (M. Misend)
5. Approach of Spring Waltzes (M. Misend)
6. Cleveland and Hendricks Quick-step. (W. S. Hixley)
7. A. Overture. (W. S. Hixley)
8. Gen. Logan's Grand March. (J. C. Heeds)
